

You have, in accordance with the Consumer Agreement Act, the right to certain information, including regarding the right of cancellation and about the ordered product. Information about the ordered product can be found in the order confirmation. Information on the right of cancellation can be found in the form below.

Deadline for cancellations:

The deadline for cancellation is fourteen days.

The deadline is calculated from the time when the goods are received.

If the deadline is on a Bank holiday, Saturday, Constitution Day, Christmas Day or New Year's Day, it can be extended until the following weekday.

The goods can be returned after usage that is necessary to determine the nature, properties and the functioning of the goods – however, with the proviso that you are liable for any possible deterioration in the value of the goods which results from any handling of the goods other than that which is necessary to test them in a usual manner.

How to cancel an order:

Before the cancellation deadline, you must notify the firm with an unambiguous declaration that you will cancel the agreement. If you will make this notification in writing – for example via letter or e-mail – then just send the notification before the deadline runs out. If you wish to have proof that you have cancelled the order in a timely manner, you can, for example, send the letter by recommended post and keep the mail receipt.

You will bear the cost of returning the item yourself, and it must be returned within fourteen days of the date you notified us that you had cancelled the agreement. The cancellation form must be completed and returned for the cancellation right to be made valid.
